HORSE AND CARRIAGE MARKET.

New-York, Friday, Oct. 14, 1870. The market is moderately active so far as Canadian and Western work-horses are concerned, but even for these the demand is far more limited, and the figures for which they sell much lower, than during the preceding week. The latter is not the case with road and coach-horses—holders evincing a disposition to maintain prices, but as a general rule, the market is not so active as it was some weeks since.
